The amounts of variable remuneration are determined gross. The final amount to be paid by the Company is reduced by the amounts of remuneration received by Piotr Jeleński and Michał Nitka in subsidiaries for their functions in supervisory and advisory bodies.

IV. An explanation of how total remuneration is consistent with the Policy, including how it contributes to the Company's long-term performance and information on how the performance criteria have been applied

The total remuneration, including the bases, rules and procedures for determining, calculating and paying the remuneration for Members of the Company's Management Board and Members of the Supervisory Board are in accordance with principles and procedures adopted in the Remuneration Policy, adopted by the Company. The proportion of fixed remuneration of the Members of the Management Board to variable remuneration, as well as the manner of calculation and payment of remuneration, including in particular variable remuneration (bonuses), is in accordance with the principles adopted in the Remuneration Policy.

The members of the governing bodies did not receive in the reporting period any remuneration (including cash and non-cash components) other than provided for in the Remuneration Policy.

The variable remuneration of the Members of the Company's Management Board is dependent on financial performance. Pursuant to the Remuneration Policy, the dependence on financial results may relate both to the results of the entire Company and/or Group and/or Segment which is supervised by a given Member of the Management Board.

The variable part of the remuneration is settled after the closing of the financial year for which the remuneration is calculated and it is paid on the basis of data from the financial statements, confirmed by the auditor's report. In the course of the financial year, advances are made on variable remuneration depending on the achievement of financial targets .

As the greater part of the remuneration of the members of the Management Board is the variable part depending on the financial objectives and is paid in proportion to the Company's performance, this directly contributes to the achievement of the Company's long-term results (which are the achievement of increasingly better economic results and thus maximising the Company's net profits).

The table below provides details of the variable remuneration - descriptions of the business objectives, the adequate achievement of which entitles to receive variable remuneration (bonus) in 2023. In doing so, the Supervisory Board has verified that the total remuneration is in line with the adopted Remuneration Policy, including that the proportion of fixed to variable remuneration has been maintained in accordance with the principles set out in the Policy and the method of calculation and payment of bonuses is in line with the principles adopted in the Policy.
